The age-old expression… “There’s good news and there’s bad news”… can be used to describe Fulton County Health Center’s situation with new physician specialists who want to practice at the Health Center. The good news is that more physician specialists have expressed an interest in establishing an office at FCHC. The bad news is there is no space to accommodate them. But that all changed on April 24, 2017, when FCHC held a groundbreaking ceremony to kick off construction of a new four-story Medical Office Building on the south side of its campus.

“We’re simply out of space for our doctors,” says Patti Finn, FCHC CEO. “Not only do new specialists want to come here, but some of our current physicians in our North Medical Office Building would like to have more office and exam room space. This new facility will solve both problems and offer our patients more opportunities to see medical specialists right here in town.”

The new South Medical Office Building will have four floors and be attached to the south side of the Health Center near its Emergency Department. Construction of the 62,000 square foot facility will take 18-24 months. It will consist of three floors with 40,000 square feet of space that physicians will lease. The fourth floor will be shelled and reserved for future development. FCHC will also construct a new 150-space south parking lot, and the east parking lot will be expanded with an additional 182 spaces.

“Construction will first focus on the new parking lot, since the footprint of the new building will be on top of some current parking spaces that we will lose,” says Finn. Construction on the facility itself will begin sometime this summer.

The $19 million construction fee is being financed with a construction loan through Huntington Bank. FCHC will pay off Huntington Bank using a lower interest loan it has obtained from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Rural Development Community Facilities Grant and Loan Program. MBA Architects and Planners of Perrysburg, Ohio are providing architectural services. Rupp/Rosebrock, Inc. of Liberty Center, Ohio, is managing construction.

“This new South Medical Office Building is part of our 100-year strategic plan we completed in 2015,” says Finn. “Our Board of Directors and administrative staff spent a significant amount of time planning for the future health care needs of the community.”

For more information about FCHC’s new South Medical Office Building, contact Steve McCoy, Director of Marketing and Planning, at 419-330-2717 or smccoy@fulhealth.org.
Note: The ground floor entrance on the south side of FCHC will be closed during construction. However, the Emergency Department and Main Health Center entrances will not be affected.

When an infant is born at Fulton County Health Center, a great deal of care is taken to ensure the health and well being of the baby and mother. Sometimes that can be a challenge if the infant is in distress. But thanks to medical technology already in place in the FCHC Emergency Department, at-risk infants will soon benefit from leading-edge technology.

“We will soon introduce neonatal telemedicine at the Health Center that will link our physicians and nurses with physician specialists at St. Vincent Mercy Medical Center,” says Christopher Meyer, MD, FCHC Pediatrician. “This partnership with St. V’s will tap into cutting edge technology to draw in the neonatal specialist and enable us to offer the best pediatric care possible for the baby.” Dr. Meyer says neonatal telemedicine will connect FCHC with a St. V’s neonatologist or neonatal nurse practitioner and allow for a second medical opinion in real time. “It will result in a faster, more accurate diagnosis while the newborn is in Wauseon,” says Dr. Meyer.

Candise Ankney, BSN, RNC, FCHC Family Birthing Center Manager, explains how neonatal telemedicine works. “It's similar to calling someone through Skype® on the Internet,” says Ankney. “We'll phone St. V’s and let them know that we would like a telemedicine consult and they will dial in with the robot to our hospital. The robot has a camera mounted to the top of the monitor so the St. V's specialist can observe the baby. It also has a stethoscope attached to it, so when we place the stethoscope on the baby the St. V's physician can hear everything we hear.” Ankney says the specialist can ask questions of FCHC physicians and nurses who are in the room with the baby and discuss the infant’s condition.

“We will use the technology to consult with the St. V’s specialists while the baby is in the nursery and determine if it needs to be transferred to St. V's,” says Dr. Meyer. “If a transfer is warranted, we can remain in constant contact with the neonatologist until their medical team arrives to transport the baby. Once the baby arrives at St. V’s, we can use the robot to initiate contact between the baby and the mother who will still be at FCHC. That helps maintain the bond between mom and baby until she can go to Toledo.”

“This gives families a big vote of confidence that they can deliver their baby here in Wauseon and receive the care and attention they would get in a large tertiary hospital while also receiving our hospital’s personal care,” says Dr. Meyer.

For more information about FCHC’s neonatal telemedicine program that will be activated in the near future, contact Candise Ankney, BSN, RNC, FCHC Family Birthing Center Manager, at 419-330-2635 or email at cankney@fulhealth.org.
Since 1996, The Family Birthing Center has provided educational programs for expectant mothers and their significant others through the Partners in Pregnancy program. Partners in Pregnancy establishes an individually based partnership between a Family Birthing Center nurse and the expectant mothers. It provides information for a healthier pregnancy and delivery and informs parents-to-be of several classes available to prepare them for childbirth. Meetings also include a tour of The Family Birthing Center, the completion of paperwork prior to the birth of the baby, and addressing any questions or concerns.

“A large part of our program is to prepare the mother for what to expect during labor and delivery,” says Peg Short, RN, Family Birthing Center Nurse Educator. “We also explain proper care for mom and baby after discharge, along with the follow-up assessment we perform several days after the birth of the newborn.”

The Family Birthing Center offers a range of Partners in Pregnancy educational classes and programs to help families prepare for the new arrival. To register, call the FCHC Family Birthing Center at 419-330-2757.

Lauren McNany, MT-BC, was recently hired as a full-time Music Therapist. She will provide music therapy for inpatients as well as for those in the Older Adult Intensive Outpatient program.

“Music therapy has been proven to help individuals with their physical, mental and emotional health needs,” says McNany. “In our FulCare Behavioral Health setting, we will use it either on an individual basis or in a group setting.”

According to McNany, music therapy is commonly used with patients in this setting in three forms: 1) The music therapist plays an instrument, such as the piano or guitar, to connect with patients; 2) The music therapist develops a playlist of songs preferred by the patient; 3) The patient plays an instrument with guidance from the therapist. “All three forms of music therapy have their place and effectiveness,” says McNany. “Certainly, when the patient actively plays an instrument it can prove to be very motivating for them and will boost their self-esteem.”

On the other hand, listening to a playlist allows McNany to engage in conversation with the individual. In some documented cases, patients with dementia who have not reacted to outside stimuli have suddenly smiled when listening to an old favorite song. “The sky is the limit with music therapy, because there are multiple avenues we can pursue,” says McNany. She says an assessment is performed for each individual when they first arrive at the FulCare facility. “Music therapy isn’t for everyone, but for many it can be a great way to cope with anxiety and deal with depression.”

Individual music therapy sessions can last from 10-45 minutes, depending upon the individual. Group sessions allow participants to perform a musical jam session, which encourages them to listen and engage with one another.

McNany is a native of northeast Ohio and began taking piano lessons at age of four. She graduated from Grove City College with a Bachelor of Music degree focusing on piano. McNany also earned a minor in psychology from Grove City College and holds a Bachelor of Music in Music Therapy degree from Slippery Rock University. Following her graduation, McNany completed her music therapy internship at the Finger Lakes DDSO in upstate New York, working with adults who have intellectual and developmental disabilities. She also studied clinical improvisation and humanistic psychology. McNany then moved to northern Virginia to provide music therapy services to a variety of populations in a private practice setting, serving infants to older adults with a range of abilities. She is excited to return to her home state to continue her career as a music therapist.

FulCare Behavioral Health Services is located on the 5th floor of FCHC. They offer inpatient mental health treatment and intensive outpatient therapy for Adults over the age of 60, along with adult outpatient and partial hospitalization mental health treatment for adults of all ages.
On April 24th we held a ceremonial groundbreaking for a new Medical Office Building on the south side of our campus. The new South MOB will be devoted to physician specialists who have expressed interest in practicing medicine at FCHC. In addition, some of our current physicians in the North Medical Office Building need more space and will move to the new south building. Three of the four floors will be completed with physician offices, while the fourth floor will be shelled for future development. What this means for you is that you will be able to receive care from even more medical professionals without having to leave the area. Our lead story provides more details about the new facility.

In addition to expanding our campus, we are also capitalizing on using new neonatal telemedicine that will benefit newborns who are at risk. This technology has been used for several years in our Emergency Department. Soon, we will share that technology with our medical staff in our Family Birthing Center. An article in this newsletter covers that technology. We are also dedicated to keeping mom and baby healthy, and we include an article about our Partners in Pregnancy program.

Finally, this issue includes our annual report to the community that provides details about our services and performance last year.

As always if you have any comments or suggestions, please feel free to contact us.

Best Regards,

Patti Finn,
Fulton County Health Center
Chief Executive Officer

In June 2015, Fulton County Health Center kicked off its first Health Care Camp as a way to share its facility with high school students, especially those curious about a health care career. Since then, the camps have been held quarterly during the school year as well as three times each summer. Over the last two years, FCHC has hosted 12 groups of students, consisting of 72 students from 12 area high schools.

Students learn about vocational planning for health care careers, including concepts such as basic clinical skills, confidentiality of patient information, infection control, customer service, empathy, insurance 101, safety, and practiced wheelchair use. The camp includes a complete tour of the hospital.

“The camps are a great way for our high school students to learn about career options in health care and if the environment is right for them,” says Mary Gautz, FCHC Volunteer Coordinator. “We are able to speak candidly with the students and answer their questions. Most of them have told us they have found the health care camps to be useful and informative.”

Gautz says the health care camps are the gateway to future job shadowing and volunteerism opportunities at the Health Center. “Health Camp attendees are able to apply to become FCHC VolunTeens if they wish, and we will open our doors to them,” says Gautz. “Serving as a VolunTeen provides a student with even more vocational health care experiences.” Many FCHC staff members have offered to serve as coaches to the teens and have invited them to various job shadowing opportunities. VolunTeens can spend time in the Emergency Department, Obstetrics, CCU, Medical Surgical, Psychiatric, Laboratory, Radiology, and in various office settings.

FCHC will host three Health Care camps this summer: Monday, June 26; Thursday, July 20; or Wednesday, August 16. All camps will be held from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. All Health Care Camps are free, but pre-registration is required. Each session is limited to the first 10 students who pre-register. Interested students should contact Mary Gautz, Volunteer Coordinator, at mgautz@fulhealth.org or 419-330-2695 for more information or to receive an application.

Many of us will be working, exercising or sitting outside this summer. Here are some tips for a safe and healthy season:

1. Never Leave Children or Pets in a Hot Car
The temperature can get well over 100 degrees inside, and that can be devastating to a child or pet.

2. Use Sunscreen
Skin cancer is on the rise and can be attributed directly to prolonged exposure to the sun. Apply a water-resistant, broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of 30 or higher. Look for “UVA/UVB protection” on the label. In addition, wear a hat to protect the head and face.

3. Play it Safe Around Water
Children and adults are drawn to water on warm summer days. Here are common sense reminders about water safety:
- Never leave your child unattended.
- Appoint designated watchers at social gatherings where children are near a pool or pond.
- Remove toys from pools and ponds that may attract children.
- Avoid strong currents and only dive if you know the water is at least 9 feet deep.
- Avoid alcohol before swimming or boating.

4. Stay Hydrated
Drink plenty of water before you start feeling thirsty, and continue to drink throughout the day. You may drink as much as 3-4 quarts of water on a hot summer day. Avoid alcohol and caffeine, which are diuretics that will cause you to lose water through your urine. Sports drinks are high in sodium and are only recommended for exercise or long, hard work.

5. Avoid Working During the Heat of the Day
Schedule physical strenuous work in the early morning or later in the evening when it’s cooler.
